

Coastal Study Regions

Drawing on historical data from the last 1000 years, researchers examined ecological changes in the 12 coastal regions highlighted on the map. Analysis of historical archives, fishery records, sediment cores and archeological studies reveals an accelerating decline in coastal species and a corresponding loss of ecosystem services such as water filtration and fisheries catch.

